What are my options?

Want to work in adult social care? There are lots of options to help you get started.

Apprenticeships

Apprenticeships are a great option for anyone who's ready to start work and wants to develop their skills and knowledge in the sector.

They include working with a social care employer whilst achieving a qualification (this could be at college), doing skills training and earning a wage. There are different levels of apprenticeships, from level 2 to level 5 depending on your experience.

Traineeships

If you don't feel ready to do an apprenticeship, a traineeship might be a good option for you. They develop your employability skills to help you progress into an apprenticeship or employment.

Traineeships are for 16 - 24 year olds who aren't in employment. They include work preparation training, such as CV writing, support with your English and maths skills, and a work placement.

Sector routeways

The sector routeway includes a learning programme, which could be achieving the Level 1 Award in Preparing to Work in Adult Social Care, and a work placement.

They're a great way to learn more about working in the sector and develop care specific skills to help you get started. At the end of your routeway, you'll be supported to find permanent work or do more training.

They're usually set up by your local employment service such as the Jobcentre Plus.

Graduate programme

The one-year Graduate Management programme is open to ambitious graduates from any degree subject. It can accelerate your career in the rapidly growing health and social care sectors.

It's designed to fast-track graduates into leadership roles to become an effective leader and make a real impact on the lives of others.

Graduates will attain a leadership and management qualification, plus a project management accreditation.
